WHEREAS the Council of the Corporation of the Town of Belleville has resolved to erect and put in efficient repair the Bridge in the Town, and also to dredge the Harbor, and it has been ascertained that the same will require an expenditure of twelve thousand dollars, and that six thousand dollars for Bridge, and six thousand dollars for Harbor; and it is deemed advisable to borrow the same on the credit of the town for a period of twenty years and to issue a Debenture or Debentures for the purpose, to be repaid by the town payable as follows:

That is to say, the principal sum payable in twenty years from the date of this By-Law taking effect, and the interest thereon payable half yearly at the rate of seven per centum per annum.

And whereas the amount of the existing debt of said Municipality is as follows:

One hundred and thirty thousand dollars, and no interest in arrears.

And whereas for the payment of said Debentures and interest thereon, the town, at the time limited for the payment thereof, it will be necessary for the said Municipality to raise by taxation an additional rate, in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever, the sum of fourteen hundred and no interest in arrears.

And whereas the rateable property of the Town of Belleville for the year one thousand five hundred and eighty-seven, is valued at the sum of one hundred and thirty thousand dollars, and the assessed returns of that year amount to the sum of two millions two hundred and thirty thousand three hundred and six ty-dollars.

And whereas, for the payment of the interest on and for the creation of a sinking fund for the redemption of the principal of such Debenture or Debentures so to be issued, it will be necessary to levy upon the Town of Belleville a special rate of thirteen-twentieths of a mill on the dollar in each year until the cases of the stomach, Liver and Bowels. They are no Quick Medicines, pulled up by a sounding testimonial from imaginary people. They are the result of forty years experience of a first class physician, and their successful success is due to the fact that they answer exactly their name. The formula from which they are prepared, is based on sound, scientific principle, and has received the approval and probabon of the medical profession. They do not profess to be a cure-all, but for all ailments arising from any derangement of the Stomach, Liver, and Bowels, they furnish an effective remedy. We have no comparison over a hundred testimonials from physicians - have used them in their practice and highly approved of them, among which are the following:

The celebrated Russian physician, Dr. N. P. Kulakov, demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-kills may be avoided without the use of any dangerous or violent means, in the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure as once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which the patient may be cured by himself, and may be cured himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

THIS pleasant, agreeable, and scientific preparation is an indispensable article for the toilet. It cleanses the scalp, renders the hair of a delicate appearance, is easily applied, and will not stain the finest linen. Those using the Empire Hair Gloss will find that it renders the hardest and coarsest hair, soft, glossy, fine and beautiful, disposing it to stay in any position it is desired.

which it is placed. It prevents the hair from falling out, invigorates and strengthens it, and often produces a new growth of hair where it has already disappeared, by invigorating and restoring the skin, nerve, blood vessels and roots of the hair. A DUTCH FARM HOUSE.

in farmers' boys and girls of America, in content, would like to go with me to the dairy farm-house. Stable and house and dairy, and the back yard, and the place which we visit stands on the back of the canal,—the water in the canal almost at a level with the ridge-pole. One of the dry mounds has been cut to the canal to get the cows and calves, and now she is lying down and fishes, and now she is lying down and fishes, and now she is lying down in a little cart. Look at her head, and her body, and her legs, and her tail, and her udder, turning up at the top like a cat, —clump, clump, clump, they go as a rule. She has a bonnet so curious and so comical, and so different from just such a pattern as you see in her grand- other. Some of the cattle are black, blacked to keep them warm. A calf, with red cheeks and bright eyes, opens the door of the stable, and takes us along to see the cows,—26 cows standing in a row, or lying down chewing their cud, or ruminating, or looking at their feed, or fustiest of all sights, each cow has its milk drawn up to the ceiling by a cord and pulley, so that in time their tails grow

"Right up to the air!" There are great things in milk and curds and whey,
 There is a fire in the milk, where they scald the milk, also the cheese,
 We enter a little room and see pots of cream and rows of cheeses,—not such great ones as the Vermont and New Hampshire little turn out, but cheeses almost the size of your own cannon ball, not quite round,
 but like the cheese of the mountain goats. They are kept for months and years in caves, and never lose their goodness.
 We go from the stable up a short flight of steps into the kitchen, and say, "Good-morning!" to the farmer's wife, who curtseys to us. She shows us over the house, draws aside the curtains, and opens in the recesses, along the wall like there was a ship. An old clock—its brass weights pendulous as bright as sand and soap

can make them—ticks in one corner.
The good woman is drinking a cup of coffee, but if you were to ask her to write out the words
"The good woman is drinking a cup of coffee,"
she would call it a railroad "Spookey."
She takes great pleasure in showing us the treasures in the "front" room—a bureau of the richest mahogany, set off with belmountings, with carved feet like lion's claws
—with rows of deft china dishes around the room just under the ceiling; old wares
and bric-a-brac, a large, ornate, carved grandmother used which she will hand down to her daughters, and they to their children. Everything is so clean and nice that you are almost afraid to be in the room.
Carlton" in Boston Journal.

AN ELECTION BET—In the Superior Court, Montreal, a case has just been decided by His Honor, Mr. Justice Monk, having reference to the McGeoe election for Montreal West. It appears that on the 22nd of July last Mr. Richard McShane, a city councillor, wrote to Mr. J. H. F. Jordan and laid a wager with him of $200, that in the late Mr. McGeoe world, in the N.E. section the largest number of votes in 1,000. An hour's ward, and a majority of at least 1,000 in the whole division. The money was deposited with a Mr. Jordan, and afterwards on the 15th August, Mr. McShane, who seemed to be a very good fellow, wrote to Mr. Jordan, saying that he was "off." On the 5th and 6th of September, the election took place, and McGeoe did not present those justifications claimed for him to Plavine, therefore, in point of fact, lost both waters. In the meantime, Jordan had refused to pay the deposit, and the learned Judge, in response to the request, and the present action was brought to recover it. The learned Judge dismissed the action, holding that the deposit was absolutely equivalent to a payment, and the action to recover cannot by our law be maintained. Then, as the positive law of the country does not provide that this is the plain duty of the Court to declare such wagers absolutely illegal, in accordance with the morality and fundamental principles of law, and to provide nets that so tend to disturb commercial morality. But neither the statute nor any law prohibits of this practice.

could have been undoubted, had either of the parties to it been rotten; and there is a tacit consent not to be part of the counsel for the defence to admit that, if this had been so, these strict principles of public policy might have weight. The court did not believe that the point materially affected the case. If it is illegal, it is so simply because taken upon an election and without reference to the condition of the parties. The Legislature has not prohibited betting on elections, and the Court cannot therefore declare such an act illegal.

A CLEVELAND HOAX.—When Mr. Freeman, the Archdeacon of Exeter, was about to make his last visitation, a printed circular was sent round to the churches of the diocese, the archdeaconage, requesting them to fill in and return the following paper.

questions which were accompanied by extracts from Dr. F. G. Lee's "Directorium Anglicanum," in the complete Latin which Archdeacon had to have assisted:

1. Have you, at the expense of the parish, provided an amice, a chasuble, an alb, a stole, maniple, a surplice, and a stole with a stole?
2. Have you, at the expense of the parish, provided a recent recommendation of your Archdeacon, or colored?
3. Have you the communion-table covered and the altar-stone substituted for it?
4. Is there an incense-pot?
5. Does your priest know how to join his fingers, when he is to read into his hands, and how, when to turn north, east, south, and west?
6. Does he burn incense at the proper time?
7. Does he know does it smell?
8. Does he wash his fingers in the abutment, as directed, and then swallow them?

Several of us gentlemen to whom these letters were forwarded, filled them up as well as they could in perfect good faith, suspecting that they were victims of hoax.

STAGE COACHES IN ENGLAND IN 1672.—In those days of easy and rapid traveling, it was curious to find that there were no regular stage coaches until about 1700, when only six stage coaches were running regularly, and to find that these facilities were sought too great by some rural people, who urged that they should be abolished, among other reasons giving the following: "These coaches carry gentlemen coachmen, and their dogs, which otherwise they would do but upon urgent necessity; say, the convenience of the passage may require some such persons who are obliged to come much longer on horseback would stay at home, where, when they come to town, they must essently so, and to the treatise, and by these means get such a habit of idleness and love of pleasure, that they are uneasy (ever after).

IRISH CHURCH QUESTION.

LONDON, June 30.—The debate on the Irish Church Appointments Suspension Bill was continued in the House of Commons to-day. The Government was unopposed, and the crowd on the floor and in the galleries was even greater than on the two previous nights of the debate. It was generally expected that a division would take place during the sitting. Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, and the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge, were present. The Duke of Devonshire was seated in the gallery, and the Duchess of Devonshire was seated in the gallery. The Duke of Cambridge was seated in the gallery, and the Duchess of Cambridge was seated in the gallery. The Duke of Devonshire was seated in the gallery, and the Duchess of Devonshire was seated in the gallery. The Duke of Cambridge was seated in the gallery, and the Duchess of Cambridge was seated in the gallery.

On the first floor within a battery of thirty stamps, each, and striking each six present. The Duke of Argyll made a speech in support of the bill, and in reply the Duke of Devonshire made an immediate answer. He said it was to be regretted that Argyll's recommendation on the Irish Church was not adopted. He said that among the recommendations there would be one for a reduction in the number of appointments in the Irish Church, and that if that recommendation were adopted, the Duke of Argyll's bill would be a pecuniary loss. The measure was one to conciliate, not the Duke of Argyll's bill was one to gratify. The Irish Church Establishment was a relic of an ancient wrong, and its abolition would heal the wounds of Ireland. He concluded by maintaining that the bill as up was one of policy, not of propriety.

The Bishop of Oxford followed. He said that the bill was a measure of expediency, not of principle, who wanted nothing less than separation from England.

Earl Russell then rose in favor of the bill. He said that the Church had failed to accomplish the object of its existence. The equality of the terms of the compact made at the Reformation had been broken, and the Church kept. He deprecated the policy pursued on this question by the Ministry, and ended with an eloquent appeal to the generosity of the House of Commons. The resolutions and objections of the people were secured, the Crown would lose nothing.

The Duke of Devonshire then continued the House on the good temper shown in this debate. He reviewed the course of the framers of the bill, and spoke strongly of the injustice done to the people of Ireland.

At 10 o'clock the House adjourned.

At three o'clock in the morning a division took place, and the Sunday-school was rejected. The following are the figures for the bill, 92, against; 197, majority, 83. The result of the vote was the result was received with cheers by the Tory Lords.

London, June 30, midnight.—In the House of Lords to night, the South Reform Bill was agreed to in committee. The Irish Reform Bill was sent to its second reading.

London, July 1.—The North German Lloyd Steamship Company has agreed to build two additional steamers for their Bremen and Baltimore line, with the intention of making the trips between those ports fortnightly.

Paris, July 1.—Gen. Napier has reached this city and is the guest of Lord Lyons. He will be greeted with enthusiasm everywhere. He will be made a peer on his reaching England.

London, July 2.—Gen. Sir Robert Napier arrived in this city this morning. An immense crowd was assembled at the railroad depot to welcome him, and on his appearance he was received with unbounded enthusiasm.

In the House of Lords this evening, a vote of thanks to Gen. Napier, and the officers and men of the Abyssinian expedition, was moved by the Earl of Malmesbury, and carried by Earl Russell, and was unanimously approved.

In the House of Commons all the benches were filled with members, and the galleries crowded by a brilliant throng of ladies of the pump for sugar. The sugar needed for various purposes is valued at 80 gallons per minute.

Who is Mrs. Winslow?

This question is frequently asked, and we simply say that she is a lady who, for upwards of thirty years, has entirely devoted her time and talents as a Female Physician and Nurse, principally among children. She has especially studied the constitution and wants of this numerous class, and as a result of this effort, and practical knowledge obtained in a lifetime spent as nurse and physician, she has compounded a soothing Syrup, for children, teaching it to operate like magic—giving rest and health, and, moreover, sure to regulate the bowels. In consequence of this article, Mrs. Winslow is becoming more and more known as a benefactor to children, and her name is being everywhere known. In fact, she has been the cause of the health of many children, and her name is being everywhere known. The Highest Banker in the World.
At the time of the gold rush, the highest bank in the world was a marked object. There he stood, day after day, leaning against his pillar of gold, and looking down upon the throngs of men who were flocking to him from all quarters of the globe. He was a man of great power and influence, and his name was known in every corner of the world. He was the highest banker in the world, and his name was known in every corner of the world.

THE WHEAT CROP.

The wheat crop throughout the United States is represented by the American papers as really magnificent. It is a question, however, whether the crop is really so good as it is represented to be. The wheat crop is a very important one, and it is one that is of great interest to the people of the United States.
